

Weekly Review

1st March 2019

We have been so grateful for the lovely Spring weather this week. It's certainly put a spring in our step!

This week we have started our 'into the woods' topic by reading The Gruffalo by Julia Donaldson and have had so much fun exploring the story.

Oh wait, oh no! It's the Gruffalo!

The children have produced a story map for 'The Gruffalo', which will be used over the next couple of weeks to write our own Gruffalo stories.

We have also been describing the Gruffalo character and producing observational drawings to be labelled next week.

One huge hit this week has been the introduction of the Gruffalo café where we serve scrambled snake, Gruffalo crumble, roasted fox and owl ice cream!. The children have also enjoyed making Gruffalo models using playdough and making logpile houses for the snakes.

We're one step away from becoming Gruffalos ourselves!

Home learning:

We have been exploring doubling this week. Please find a doubling activity sheet in your child's plastic wallet to support their learning.

Dates for your diary

March 4th: Safeguarding Review 6.30pm in the school hall. All welcome.

March 5th: English information meeting for parents 2.15 in the school hall.

March 7th: World book day: Please come dressed as your favourite book character.

March 11th: science week.

April 8th – April 24th : Easter break (Tuesday 23rd: teacher training day)

Notes.

We have started using our new home reading books. You might notice a new reading book in your child's plastic wallet. We are using these books to supplement our current collection. As always, we encourage you to take care of the home reading books and ensure they are placed back in your child's plastic wallet after use to avoid loss or damage.

Thank you for your continued support.
